

NEW YORK COLLEGE
EUROPEAN & AMERICAN EDUCATION

MSc in Psychology - New York College

AIMS

The master's programme MSc in Psychology of the University of Bolton is a one-year programme which involves the comprehensive study of selected areas in psychology at an advanced level and the acquisition of professional and research skills.

Duration

To enter in the programme, students must have:

- an honours degree in psychology recognised by the British Psychological Association or equivalent, with classification at least 2(i) although candidates with a 2(ii) or equivalent are welcome to apply and may be offered a place on the programme initially as 'associate' students.
- a good standard of English (IELTS 6.5 or a recognised equivalent).

The MSc in Psychology is a 1-year full-time programme, taught exclusively in the English language, it starts in October.